1. Definition

- Oxford English Dictionary defines plagiarism as:
 - 'to take somebody else's ideas or words and use them as if they were one's own.'
 - 'plagiarism is the act of copying, including or directly quoting from the work of another without adequate acknowledgement'

Plagiarism

"In an academic setting, authoring a document constitutes a representation that the author is the source of all ideas and words not otherwise attributed.

Thus, failure to attribute borrowed words or ideas constitutes plagiarism

PLAGIARISM IS BOTH A LIE AND A THEFT"

L.H Edwards, Legal Writing Process, Analysis and Organization (2nd ed. 1999) p.10

Plagiarism

- Plagiarism covers ALL INSTANCES in which the work of another is used without sufficient acknowledgement, not just the cases of deliberate copying without acknowledging the source.

2. Referencing

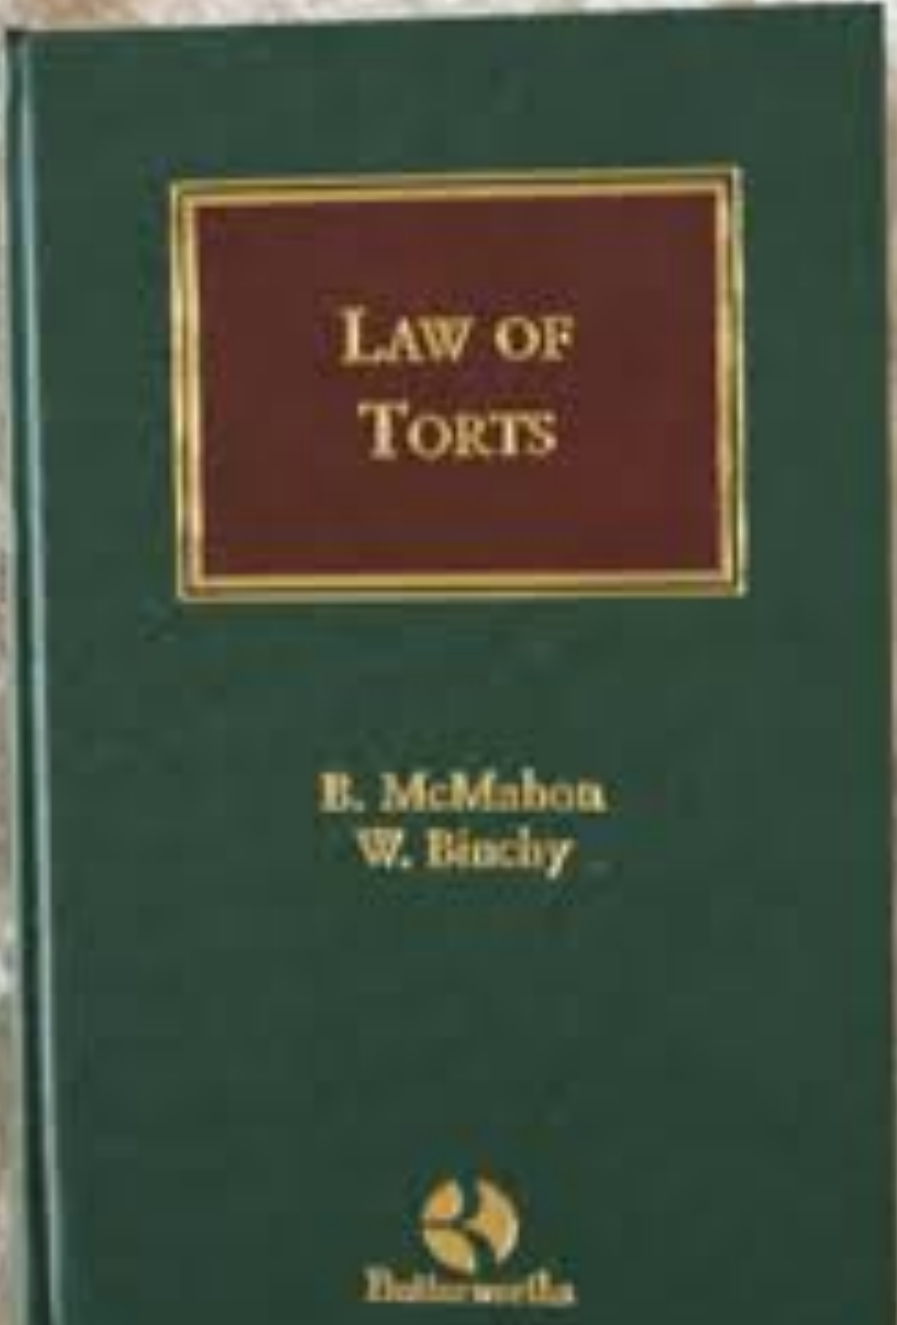

- You avoid plagiarism by ensuring that every piece of writing you create is fully and properly referenced.
- Further mention of reference and citation style is made below.

Referencing

- When to reference?

AND

- How to reference?

The image shows the front cover of a book. The cover is dark green with a gold-colored rectangular border near the top. Inside this border, the words "LAW OF TORTS" are printed in gold, serif, all-caps font. Below the border, the authors' names "B. McMahon" and "W. Binchy" are printed in a smaller gold font. At the bottom of the cover, there is a gold logo consisting of three curved shapes forming a circle, with the word "Butterworths" printed below it in a gold serif font.

TORTS

B. McMahon
W. Binchy

Butterworths

When to reference?

- Books – Example:
- Bryan McMahon and William Binchy, The Law of Torts (3rd ed. Butterworths 2000).

When to reference?

2. Direct Quotations

- You must attribute each and every quotation to its author and the book/article/journal from which it was drawn, as well as page number or paragraph number.

When to reference?

- Unless common knowledge, other material must be attributed to its source.
- What is Common knowledge?

3. Incorporation of Another's Work

There are three main ways of incorporating the work of another author into your legal writing:

- Summarising
- Paraphrasing
- Direct Quotation

Summarising

- This occurs when the student rewrites the author's original words in a shortened form, but captures the key points which the author made.

Paraphrasing

- This occurs when the student rewrites the author's original words but retains the original meaning which the original author made.

Direct Quotation

- This occurs when the student writes the author's words exactly.

Incorporation of Another's Work

- All three instances require that the student reference the original author's work because to do otherwise would be plagiarism.
- This is because in all three instances, the work is not the original work of the student but that of the original author.

Incorporation of Another's Work

GOLDEN RULE:

IF IN DOUBT - REFERENCE

4. Common Knowledge

- If the material you include in your legal writing is of common knowledge you are not required to reference the source.
- There is no generally accepted rule or definition as to what constitutes

"common knowledge"

Common Knowledge

AGAIN: THE GOLDEN RULE

IF IN DOUBT - REFERENCE

5. Inadvertent Plagiarism

- Inadvertent plagiarism is poor or lazy referencing resulting in incomplete referencing of another's ideas, words or work in the student's piece of legal writing.

* Please note it is still plagiarism.

6. Deliberate Plagiarism

- Deliberate plagiarism is when a student takes a conscious and deliberate decision to pass the work of another as their piece of writing without acknowledging the original author.

Why do Students Plagiarise?

- Laziness/Sloppiness/Ignorance
- In order to obtain a higher mark
- Poor time management
- Regardless of the reason, there is no excuse for plagiarism

7. Citation

- In order to defeat any suggestion of plagiarism, you must fully and accurately reference your piece of legal writing using an appropriate style of citation consistently.

GOLDEN RULE

- IF IN DOUBT - REFERENCE

iThenticate

iThenticate is the professional software used by journal publishers & authors. It is a trusted source by top publishers and journals worldwide.

- iThenticate uses a vast collection of resources in its database namely, Crossref Similarity Check, against which the submitted manuscript gets screened for potential similarities in text.

- ■ The documents could be provided & upload in the form of MS Word file, PDF file or any other text file.
 - The document should be less than 25,000 words. If a larger document with less than 75,000 words or three single documents needs to be checked.
- Thanks to Dr. Kabiri

Each year iThenticate checks 14 million documents for plagiarism

Comparing each submission to our content database including:

82 million

Academic articles, books, and conference proceedings from 47,000 scientific, technical, medical journals and 200,000 US law reviews

135 million

Open Access articles, books, conference proceedings, pre-prints, encyclopedias, and abstracts

90+ billion

Current and archived web pages

The acceptable percentage of similarity?

- 10-15% is accepted but even in 15% similarity, if the matching text is one continuous block of borrowed material, it is plagiarized text

- Thank you very much
